GOLDEN WEDDING

Anniversary Celebrated By Mr. and Mrs. Singleton Hodge at Their Home in Princeton

SEVERAL MARION PEOPLE ATTENDED.

Very delightful and informal was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. S. Hodge on March twenty-fifth, the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, at their home in Princeton, Ky. The only item to mar the perfect pleasure of the event being the absence of the two eldest children, Mr. Henry A. Hodge and Mrs. Sue A. Adams, their place of residence being so distant as to render it impracticable for them to be present.

Quite a large number of the friends of the worthy couple called between the hours of eight and eleven and paid their respects. On arriving the guests were met by Mrs. G. W. Dyer and Mrs. F. G. Wood, who conducted them to the parlor, where they were greeted by the bride and groom and their daughters, Mrs. Sallie Flanary and Mrs. Coleman Moore, of Hopkinsville, and son, S. D. Hodge and wife, of Princeton. After spending a short time in extending congratulations and in social pleasant chat, were conducted to the dining room, where they were served with delightful refreshments consisting of ices, cake and mint wafers served by Misses Ella and Macy Belle Jackson, Annie Hunter, Hazel Johnson, Lillian Morgan and Kate McCauley.

An immense cluster of bride roses in the center of the dining table dispensed sweet fragrance throughout the room and lent beauty to the occasion. The house, throughout, was decorated in yellow roses while candles of the same hue resting in gold candlesticks diffused a mellow light over the scene and no doubt reminded the elderly couple of the light used in their courtship days.

Little Misses Elizabeth Moore and Katherine Hodge, the charming little grand-daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hodge, received the cards of the guests. Two other of the grand-children were present, Miss Ethel Adams and Master Coleman Moore, who assisted in entertaining friends with smiles and pleasant greetings.

An account of the wedding fifty years ago, which had been preserved, was read in the course of the evening and was a good description of old time Kentucky hospitality and good cheer. The guests departed all wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hodge many more years of life, health and prosperity and that they themselves might enjoy many more such pleasant occasions. Following is the list of presents received:

One imported gold glass bowl, two white and gold hand painted plates, three sets of burnished gold candlesticks, two burnished gold clocks, one gold mounted mirror, three berry spoons, one salad fork, one olive set, one butter spread, four sugar spoons, one mayonnaise ladle, one cold meat fork, four cream ladles, five silver teaspoons, one pickle spoon, one gold and pearl pen, three coffee spoons, one-half dozen tea spoons, two cut glass tumblers, two ornamented gold urns, one gold paper weight, one brooch, one lodge pin, one gold thimble, one marriage scroll, two handsome gold frame pictures, $45 in gold money, one stick pin, one gravy ladle.

We copy the following from the Princeton Leader:

Last Monday evening was an occasion that marked another pleasant event in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. S. Hodge, it being the celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Numerous guests from home and abroad graced the occasion and shared the pleasures of the happy couple on this memorable occasion. The guests, upon their arrival at the quaint and hospitable home of the host and hostess on South Jefferson street, were cordially received by their daughter, Mrs. Sarah Flanary, who was ably and pleasantly assisted by Mrs. George Dyer and Mrs. F. G. Wood, three of Princeton's most charming and graceful matrons.

The house was beautifully and artistically decorated with Marchal Niel roses, which presented a lovely scene. In the spacious parlor numerous pretty and costly remembrances, together with telegrams and letters of congratulations were artistically displayed.

From the parlor, the guests were invited and repaired in couples to the dining room, where delightful refreshments were served in a pleasing and charming manner by the following pretty young ladies: Misses Lillian Morgan, Ella Jackson, Hazel Johnson, Annie Hunter and Macy Belle Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Hodge were born and reared in Crittenden county, and are now seventy-two and sixty-seven years of age respectively. They moved from Marion to Princeton in 1893 and have made this city their home since that time. Both through their gentle manners and true Southern hospitality, have made many true and lasting friends, who wish for both success and happiness throughout the remainder of their lives.

RAIDS ON TOBACCO BEDS

Thousands of Dollars Loss Sustained by Planters in the Dark District.

Princeton, Ky., April 1.—The tobacco raiders continue active in this section, and as a result of their latest depredations, the losses will run up into thousands of dollars, while practically no efforts are being made to capture the culprits.

Last night the tobacco bed of Mr. Cartwright, a well-known planter living near Friendship, about six or seven miles East of Princeton, was totally destroyed, and Mr. Cartwright reports that about twenty other beds in his neighborhood have suffered a similar fate.

Reports are also coming in of great destruction being wrought in Christian, Lyon and other parts of Caldwell county, the beds of association members as well as independents suffering.

Unless something is done soon by the officials, it is believed here that vigilance committee will be organized and the criminals run to earth and taken dead or alive.

Night Riders in Tennessee.

Clarksville, Tenn., April 1.—Reports from the Fourth district of this, Montgomery county, state that night riders have appeared in the vicinity of Bryantsville and damaged the plant beds of a number of tobacco growers.

Stricken With Paralysis.

Captain W. T. Colmesneil, who was brought to Letcher's Hospital several days ago, suffered a paralytic stroke in the left side and since that time the physicians have despaired of saving his life. The attending physician gave out the information last night that he may live several days or he may die any moment.—Henderson Gleaner.

Captain Colmesneil is a well known conductor on the I. C. and has many friends in this city who will regret to learn this sad news.

DISASTROUS FIRE

Two Residences, Near Depot, Burned Early Friday Morning; Other Buildings Threatened

PARTIALLY COVERED BY INSURANCE

Friday morning at two o'clock the shrill whistle of the power house of the Marion Electric Light & Ice Co., aroused the town and gave warning that a fire was in progress. The blaze, which was plainly visible, appeared to be in the tobacco factory of R. L. Moore, and hundreds rushed to the scene expecting to find the mammoth establishment in ashes. The fire, however, originated in the residence of Mrs. Hicklin, mother of Jas. and Will Hicklin, who lived with her youngest son, John, and daughter, Miss Iva.

The house and contents were doomed when the fire was discovered, it having such a start that all hope of saving it was abandoned and little time was left to save the contents only a few of which were gotten out. The wind was sweeping in a gale to the Northwest and the flames soon leaped to the large two story residence of Mrs. Mary Drury, the second floor of which was occupied by the owner and the lower floor by W. R. Thomas and his family.

The rapidity with which the flames spread gave little time to save the contents of this house, much of which was thrown out and more or less damaged and broken up.

The fight then made was to save the I. C. depot and the ice plant, which the volunteer fire brigade succeeded in doing.

Mrs. Hicklin's loss was about $2000, insurance $700 on house, nothing on contents.

W. R. Thomas had some little insurance on his household goods, but not enough to cover the loss.

Mrs. Drury carried $1500 insurance on her residence for which she paid $2500 a year and a half ago. She also carried $300 on household goods, which will partially cover her loss.

Mrs. Hicklin and family have gone to housekeeping in Will Hicklin's house on Morganfield street known as the Smithson house.

W. R. Thomas and family rented the James McConnell house on East Bellville street recently vacated by James Lawson.

Mrs. Mary Drury and her two little boys took rooms at Lee Johnson's residence (the Crim property on North Court street).

WHO CAN BEAT IT

We Have A Premium For Any Who Can.

The many friends of T. J. Yandell sr., of Chapel Hill section, will be glad to know he has recovered from a serious illness, and is able to be up and about the place. Mr. Yandell has paid his subscriptions to date for the PRESS and has renewed and paid a year in advance for the RECORD-PRESS which makes thirty years he has taken the paper and paid for it.

A. Lincoln Kirk.

Mr. A. Lincoln Kirk entertainer and impersonator will be at the School Auditorium next Monday night. He will give one of his entertainments for the ladies Aid Society, of the Presbyterian Church.

A. Lincoln Kirk holds a unique place among the platform entertainers of the country. For many years he has toured the Eastern and Central States, booking his own engagements and dealing direct with the parties engaging his services. He works along quiet and conservative lines, and his aim is always to present an intellectual entertainment possessing enough novelty to appeal to popular tastes.

Mr. Kirk devised this entertainment for the purpose of presenting the various phases of human nature in an original manner, and at the same time retaining the refinement and literary qualities of an ordinary evening of readings. He is not a stilted elocutionist, but a refined and versatile entertainer and character impersonator.

He has great range of voice and facial expression, and the greater part of his selections are given with no other adjunct than an occasional cap or wig.

With an extensive repertoire, ranging from a heavy dramatic selection from Shakespeare down to a comic impersonation of a school boy, he presents a most satisfactory program of humor, pathos and character delineations, and he can comply with all reasonable demands upon his versatility. Admission, adults 25 cents; children 15 cents.

Hoover-Lynn.

Last Thursday night at the residence of the bride's father, Webb Lynn, near Sheridan, Mr. Hugh Hoover and Miss Edna May Lynn were united in marriage by the Rev. W. R. Gibbs at 7:30 o'clock, in the presence of a few neighbors and friends. The young couple will reside at Sikeston, Mo., where the groom located soon after leaving Crittenden county, which he did last year. He is engaged in farming. The bride is one of the county's most estimable young ladies and is a beautiful young woman, with many charms of person and manner. The Record-Press congratulates the handsome groom on winning one of Kentucky's fairest daughters for his "blossom bride." An interesting feature of the ceremony was the fact twenty-two years before last month the Rev. said the marriage ceremony for the bride's parents.

A Good Beginning.

Mrs. John Easley, of Hebron neighborhood, has over one hundred little chickens and twenty hens setting. This sounds like market ought to be well supplied.

TOWERY WINS

Patterson Literary Society Holds Contest—Gold Medal Given By President Patterson

DEFEATS GOLDNAMER FOR THE HONORS.

The Patterson Literary Society of the State College held its annual oratorical contest in the college chapel, Saturday night. The contestants were B. T. Towery and M. S. Goldnamer. Mr. Goldnamer's subject was "Our Kentucky." His speech was truly an oration and was beautiful indeed in thought and expression. His pronunciation and delivery were most excellent. He is an experienced amateur speaker and showed his training. Mr. Towery spoke on the subject "The Spirit of Reform." This speech was one truly up to date. It showed a great amount of study regarding the present political conditions and suggestions for reform in certain particulars. Besides having an excellent foundation, his speech was a model of fluent and excellently used English. His delivery was excellent.

Mr. Towery was the winner of the declamatory contest held a few weeks ago and, like his opponent, was not on the platform as a new hand, but showed his long experience. After a long parley, the judges decided in favor of Mr. Towery. Besides receiving a handsome gold medal, the gift of President Patterson, the winner has the right to compete with Mr. Payne, the representative of the Union Society. This contest will decide who is to represent the college in the intercollegiate oratorical contest which is to be held here on April 26. The judges in Saturday night's contest were Hon. E. L. Hutchison, Prof. A. N. Whitlock and Hon. George S. Shanklin.—Lexington Leader.

Mrs. Green Jacobs Dead.

Mrs. M. J. Jacobs, wife of Green Jacobs and daughter of Wm. Loyd, died Tuesday at the family home four miles from the city on the Pycusburg road. She had been a sufferer from consumption of the lungs for several months and her death was not unexpected. She was a sister of Frank Loyd, a former citizen of this city, now of Seldon, Kan., and of Jas. P. Loyd, of Crayneville, and was about forty years of age. She had been a consistent member of Chapel Hill church for many years.

The funeral and interment took place there Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock, the pastor, Rev. A. J. Thompson officiating.

Gone West to Reside.

R. H. Butler left Monday for Okmulgee, Okla. Ter. to reside. He recently made a trip West and has since had the fever. We regret to give up such citizens as Mr. Butler and his family and hope for them success and happiness in their new home.

Mr. Butler's sale, at his late home, near Dean's school house, last Tuesday, was well attended and his personal property sold well.

FIRE AT STURGIS

Incendiaries Supposed to Have Destroyed Property of West Kentucky Coal Co.

Sturgis, Ky., April 1.—Fire which broke out here at midnight caused a loss of $85,000 to the West Kentucky Coal Company's mines, the tippie and other property being completely destroyed. The officials of the company are positive that fire was started by an incendiary. There has been a strike on at the mines for some time, and the company had recently put a large force of non-union men to work in their shaft. The union miners, being completely beaten, had been keeping quiet, and the guard had been reduced to one man. This watchman last night saw a man sneaking around the tippie shortly before midnight, and a few moments later the fire broke out. The flames had evidently been started in several places, as they spread rapidly, and before the forces at hand were unable to cope with it. Detectives have been put on the case, and an effort will be made to discover the incendiaries.

This is labor day here, and the union miners are parading the streets, but so far there has been no disorder.

Poseyville Ind., March 22.—The little one year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ramsey, of this place, was drowned in a bucket of water yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Ramsey had been watering his horse in a candy bucket in the yard and had only left the house but a few moments when the little tot walked out while its mother was employed and fell with his head down in the bucket, which was half full of water.

The child had probably been in the water about ten minutes when discovered. All efforts to revive the little one failed and the mother is prostrated with grief over the loss of her loved one.

New Hampshire's Ice Mountains

One of the natural curiosities of this country is the Hampshire ice mountain on the bank of North creek 26 miles from Winchester. For about a quarter of a mile the west side of the mountain is covered with loose boulders and stones of light color, the mass extending all the way down to the river. By lifting these stones on any day in the year crystals of ice can always be found securely hidden in the crevices beneath.

Little Virginia Hale is Fearfully Burned. Virginia Hale, one of Mrs. Ethel Hale's little twin daughters, stepped into a pot of hot soap, that was cooling in the back yard, Tuesday afternoon and was painfully burned on about one fourth of the surface of her body. One leg, side and arm were blistered and greatly burned by the heat and lye. The little girl was jumping a rope in the yard when she fell into the pot. The soap was partially cooled or she would have scalded to death. The outcome can now be foretold, but she is resting as comfortable as could be expected.

BRAVE LITTLE GIRL

Rescued Mother and Brother from Drowning at Caseyville.

News reached us just as we were going to press, of the heroic act of little Miss Aikin in rescuing her mother and little brother from drowning at Caseyville. While driving along the levee, the horse drawing the buggy in which was Mrs. Aikin, her twelve year old daughter and six year old son, took fright at a wheel-barrow laden with fish nets, backing off the levee and overturning the buggy in deep water. The brave little heroine jumped as she realized that they were going to their death, saving herself, but seeing her mother and brother drowning she managed to get hold of her mother, and, small as she was, succeeded in pulling her to shore. Then never thinking of her own danger, rushed into the water after her brother, and to the astonishment of those watching, but unable to render assistance, she also saved him. Those witnessing the scene claim to have never seen anything like it. The brave little woman should be entitled to a carnegie medal.—Sturgis News Democrat.

EDMUND KEAN.

To See Him Act Was Like Reading Shakespeare by Lightning.

Before the third century after the birth of Shakespeare had reached its first quarter there was born in England to a stage carpenter and a strolling actress a child destined to grapple with the poet's highest thought and interpret it with a vividness that to this day stands unrivaled. Coleridge's terse comment, that to see him act was reading Shakespeare by lightning, reveals him with the fullness of a volume. Edmund Kean, along with most people early trained to an art, had little if any education of the schools. He was when a boy provided with instruction by some benevolent people whom his smartness and beauty attracted, but he rebelled against the tasks of study and went to sea. But life there was too rough for his fine nature. He returned to England and at the age of seven began the study of Shakespeare's characters with his Uncle Moses. This he continued with an actress named Tidwell, who taught him, besides, as well as she knew, the principles of her art.

At an early age he had the credit of originality so surprising as even then to challenge the supremacy of Philip Kemble. At fourteen he played Hamlet. King George had him recite at Windsor castle, and it is said this incident led some gentlemen to send him to Eton, but there is no record of it. At twenty he was in a provincial troop, a member of which he married, and for six years thereafter, until his glorious night at Drury Lane, his life was one of hardship, struggle, obscurity, but, thanks to the faith in himself, not hopeless. His London debut was made at twenty-eight. He had fought for it hard and long and would then have missed it but for the falling reputation of the theater. London debuts in first roles are not easy for provincial actors, and none knew better how hard they are to get than Henry Irving. Kean seems to have been at his full splendor and made a hit. After that his habits were altogether prejudicial to the refinement of taste or the acquisition of knowledge.

A TREE OF ILL REPUTE.

The Fresh Juice of the Upas Acts as a Deadly Poison.

An evil reputation has long been borne by the upas tree, Antiaris toxicaria, which grows in Borneo and other East Indian islands. It is still a common belief that birds dying within the influence of its poisonous vapors instantly perish and that it is fatal for animals or men to rest beneath its shade. It resembles certain rhus plants (like the poison ivy) in emitting a volatile substance which affects the skins of certain susceptible persons, though others are unaffected. The sap is very poisonous and is the chief substance used by the Dyaks of Borneo for poisoning the tips of their darts.

In this process an incision is made in the bark of the tree and the milky exudation collected on a palm leaf and dried first in the sun and then over a fire until a thick brown mass is left. In this state it can be kept without deteriorating, and when required for use it is made into a thin paste with the juice of "tuba" root, which is used to stupefy fish, or with tobacco or lemon juice, and the ends of the darts dipped into the mixture and dried. These darts are made from the middle stem of the palm leaf and are about six or eight inches in length and of about the thickness of a knitting needle.

They are used with a wooden snuff-pipe, or blowpipe, which is about seven or eight feet in length and has an internal diameter of about one-quarter inch. A bird struck by one of these little darts is instantly killed, and a pig dies in about twenty minutes. The fresh juice of the upas tree, whether swallowed or injected into the blood, acts as a violent poison, causing convulsions and death.—Chicago News.

Larvæ Nests.

By breaking open rotten logs one can find in midwinter the grubs or larvae of many of the wood boring beetles, and beneath logs and stones near the margins of ponds and brooks hordes of the maggots or larvae of certain kinds of flies may often be found huddled together in great masses. The larvae of a few butterflies also live over winter beneath chips or bunches of leaves near the roots of their food plant or in webs of their own construction, which are woven on the stems close to the buds whose expanding leaves will furnish them their first meal in spring.

He Didn't Hush.

"Mamma," queried little Willie, "what is 'hush'?"
"Why do you ask, dear?" said his mother.
"Because," explained the observing urchin, "when I asked sister what made her hair all mussed after her beau was here this afternoon she said, 'Hush, dear!'"—Chicago News.

The Caller.

"Mary, has any one called while I was out?"
"Yes, ma'am; Mr. Biggs was here."
"Mr. Biggs? I don't recall the name."
"No, ma'am; he called to see me, ma'am."—Strand Magazine.

Out of Sight

"Out of sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special force to a sore, burn or wound that has been treated with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's out of sight, out of mind and out of existence. Piles too and chilblains disappear under its healing influence. Guaranteed by J. H. Orme.

Send your order for this combination to us—Not to the Courier-Journal. The regular price of the weekly Courier-Journal alone is $1.00 a year.

KODOL is a thorough stomach relief. It digests what you eat and gives the stomach rest and assists in restoring it to its normal activity and usefulness. KODOL is sold on a guarantee relief plan by J. H. Orme.

your cough is only in the throat and does not trouble you now, don't think that it needs no attention. When it has not had much of a start is the time to check it. Head Ache Sometimes?

If so, it will interest you to know that it can be stopped with Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills; and without any bad after-effects, and this without danger of forming a drug habit or having your stomach disarranged. They positively contain no opium, morphine, cocaine, chloral, ether or chloroform in any form. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain, and leave only a sense of relief. The reason for this is explained by the fact that headache comes from tired, irritable, turbulent, over-taxed brain nerves. Anti-Pain Pills soothe and strengthen these nerves, thus removing the cause. They are harmless when taken as directed.

"We use Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for the cure of headache, and we think that there is nothing that will equal them. They will cure the severest spell of nervous or sick headache in a very few minutes. I am of a nervous temperament, and occasionally have spells when my nerves seem to be completely exhausted, and I tremble so I can scarcely contain myself. At these times I always take the Anti-Pain Pills, and they quiet me right away. It is remarkable what a soothing effect they have upon the nerves."

MRS. F. E. KALL, Detroit, Mich.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first package will benefit. If it fails, he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

THE MARSH MARIGOLD

Caltha palustris—the marigold—Flameth afire as its leaves unfold. Yellow and bright! Like a sunset glow, Carpets the marsh where the zephyrs blow!

Caltha palustris—the marigold. Stirrith within me sweet memories old! Thoughts of a maiden, with true blue eyes, Plucking them there 'neath the halcyon skies!

Caltha palustris—the marigold. Speaks of a day when one's hope was bold. Tells of a time when the heart was light. Throbbing in Faith, with no thoughts of night!

Caltha palustris—the marigold—Paint from thy petals of fairy mold. Wafts o'er the chasm of years that flee, Incense of youth, and its grace, to me.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY (INCORPORATED)

Has the Sermon of To-day Lost Its Power

A Symposium in Reply to Declaration of Rev. Thomas Spurgeon, of London, that "the day of the sermon, as a factor in the influencing of mankind, has passed."

By Rev. Henry A. Stimson.
Congregational.

THE Christian theory of the sermon is that it is a message from God on the life of a man who is set apart to live near to God, and so to know the will and mind of God. If it ceases to be that, whatever else it may be, it ceases to be a sermon.

Belief in God involves belief in religion, and that involves worship, and that in turn the belief in the presence of God in His sanctuary, and His voice in the word of the preacher. Of course, there are always preachers and hearers who forget this, but if it were generally forgotten or disbelieved, the religion of Jesus Christ would quickly cease to be a living force. I see no reason to believe that that is true, therefore I cannot think that the sermon has lost its place or its power.

"Eliminating the sermon" would be eliminating the life from public worship. It would quickly die altogether and become a mere form.

By Rev. John J. Kean,
Roman Catholic.

AS AN evidence that the sermon still is a powerful factor, one has only to regard the church attendance on special occasions when famous speakers are announced. Also at mission services the sermon is looked forward to as a most important and interesting part of the exercises. The preachers at these mission services are selected for their fitness, and their sermons, of an hour's length, are carefully prepared. They touch the eternal truths of revelation; sin, its enormity, its punishment, its atonement; the love and fear of God; the beauty of the virtues; the repulsiveness of the vices. Sermons of this sort bring the crowds to the church and stir up the people to a new life. The church is in no danger of eliminating the sermon, but the clergy are coming to an appreciation of the fact that the short sermon is more potent than the long discourse.

By Rev. Junius B. Remensnyder, Lutheran.

THE strain of modern life, the multiplication of worldly attractions, the complexity and imperious demands of business, encroach upon the Sunday hours and deplete church attendance. I do not believe, however, in the secularization of the age as a remedy. When religion surrenders the word of God for any modern substitute, it will find that it has fallen into contempt with the very ones who opposed it. And contempt is far more destructive than enmity, which is ever an implied recognition of power. It is the faithful preachers of the gospel who, in the end, hold their congregations. The church will have its times of spiritual coldness and reaction in the present, as it has had them at various periods of history, but it will always have a unique mission and power.

By Rev. R. S. McArthur, Baptist.

IN every community during all the centuries there has been a class of persons to whom the remarks of Rev. Thomas Spurgeon would literally apply. He is very competent to speak on this subject. But in every age there have been those who were readily reached and profoundly moved by sermons. The old gospel has not lost its pristine power; it is still the power of God unto salvation. This is proved to-day by summer evangelistic campaigns in tents in New York city. There never were, in the history of the city, movements so aggressive and successful during the heated term as those of the last two summers. The "cloth" as cloth fortunately has lost its power, but the "cloth" and the pulpit, as representing educated, patriotic, manful and consecrated men, were never so great a power as to-day.

More Exercise for School Children

By JOHN M. TYLER,
Professor of Biology, Amherst College.

Two classes of children in our public schools demand special attention to-day. First, the children of the business and professional classes. Second, the brighter and more ambitious children of every class. Both these classes will probably enter into business or professional life. A sound and vigorous body and tough nervous system are absolutely essential to their success.

Muscular exercise and fresh air are necessary to the child to promote growth and development of all the vital organs, the brain included. If the motor centers are not well developed, the adult becomes an impractical dreamer over, as President Walker has said, "standing shivering on the brink of action," always planning, hoping, or criticising, never creating or realizing. The motor centers must be developed early, if at all.

The sensory and motor centers deserve and need more time and training for their full development. The best hygienic exercise for the child, that which will best promote the growth of all the vital organs, is the one which calls into play the largest mass of muscular tissues. Such exercises are running and climbing and others which use the muscles of the trunk, legs, and shoulders, and which characterize the natural, spontaneous plays of children. The play instinct is only the expression of a craving for exercise of organs which absolutely require that exercise for their further growth and development. Such an instinct deserves our respect, and should be gratified in our system of education. Furthermore, good physiologists tell us that the centers controlling the action of the heavy muscles of the trunk and legs are precisely those which resist nervous prostration and weakness, and that they must be exercised at all cost in the children of nervous parents. The child's play is fortifying him against the dangers of adult life.

True social life apparently begins in the primary and intermediate grades. Here boys and girls, with much friction and squabbling, learn to adjust themselves to their surroundings. The firmest and most enduring friendships are made early. This part of education, whose field is the playground rather than the desk, needs special emphasis in our day of small families.

We need more and better manual training of all kinds throughout the school course. The teachers in our high schools should be allowed time and freedom for moral and religious education, for development of the pupil's tastes, interests, and ideals, for character-building, as well as for instruction and intellectual discipline. Such a system will produce graduates of far greater power and efficiency, of more real knowledge and of no less learning.

French Economy.

France in her system of finance and her whole scheme of economy aids and encourages saving among the people. The government conducts a vast banking institution whereby every postoffice has its savings bank department—its "caisse d'epargne." Here any one may make a deposit as low as 1 franc (20 cents), which deposit is recorded in one's "livret de la caisse d'epargne" (savings bank book). A convenient feature of this system tending to make saving easy is that one may make his deposits in any postoffice anywhere in France and may withdraw any part or all his savings at any postoffice, without regard to where the deposits have been made. I have never had a servant in France who had not her "livret de la caisse d'epargne," and yet the girl or woman, if she had no family of her own to support, almost invariably contributed to the support of her father's family. I have had one middle-aged "femme de chambre" on whose face each day I could read pretty well how the bourse was going—Flora McDonald Thompson in Harper's Bazar.

Shopping.

Shopping is a form of cruelty indulged by married ladies toward their husbands. It is incipient in young girls, reaches an active condition in brides and arrives at its most virulent stage between the tenth and the twenty-fifth year of married life. A small, delicate, slight, nervous, sensitive woman who would faint away at an empty mouse trap will go through the shopping district in from two to seven hours and come out refreshed and sustained by an unflinching trust in her husband's credit is good, while that gentleman at the end of forty-five minutes has to be carried home on a stretcher. Some women are born shoppers, others achieve it, but not one of them has it thrust upon her. Shopping is extensively practiced on week days, beginning on Monday with a rush and ending on Saturday in time for the opera. It promotes industry. Without it married men would have time to rest.—Delineator.

Shooting a Rabbit.

In Sullivan county there is a man who spent a whole day hunting, and at nightfall he was returning homeward empty handed when he found a rabbit in a snare and still kicking. He released it and was about to dispatch it with the back of his hand when it occurred to him that he could not say he shot it, as no shot marks would be found to corroborate his story. So he tied a string to one of the hind legs of the rabbit, tied the other end to the fence, backed away twenty yards and fired. The shot cut the string and bunny ran away. Such a good joke on himself was too good to keep, and he told it at the village grocery, little thinking that it would be handed about, until now if you want to anger him the mere mention of the yarn opens the old store.—Forest and Stream.

Practicing by Ear.

When Grover Cleveland was practicing law at Buffalo among his associates was a young lawyer who, though a bright fellow, was rather inclined to laziness. He was forever bothering Cleveland about points of law rather than look them up himself. At last Cleveland became tired of it, and the next time the young man sauntered in Cleveland knew what he wanted and, getting up, pointed to his bookcase and said: "There are my books. You are welcome to them. You can read up your own case." The fellow was caught, but he rose to the occasion. "See here, Grover Cleveland," he said, "I want you to understand I don't read law. I practice entirely by ear, and you and your books can go to thunder!"

Women Rule as Babies Do.

The ordinary man would still much rather glorify women and set them on a mock throne, whence he can depose them at will, than have to acknowledge in them a real title to regard. It is difficult for a man to overcome his essential self importance. Most of us perhaps prefer to have inferiors round us—an abject trait of character, but natural. And only very slowly have we men been getting to prefer our womankind as friends and equals rather than as queens and pets, ruling us as a baby or a spoiled dog does.—London Saturday Review.

A Clever Hint.

"You are so popular," sighs the swain. "You have so many suitors!" "The idea!" smiles the fair young thing. "Why, I can count them all on the fingers of my left hand. See! The index finger is Mr. Smugforth, the second finger is Mr. Balder, and the third finger—the third finger of my left hand—the third finger is you."

Next day he got the ring for it.—Chicago Post.

News to Him.

"The beauty of this great and glorious republic," said the American proudly, "is that any boy born here may become president."

"Fawney!" exclaimed the British tourist. "I was under the impression that the president had to be at least forty years of age!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Philosopher.

A philosopher is a man who when he has hard luck, due to his own carelessness and idiocy and other shortcomings, can blame it all on fate.—Somerville Journal.

Arkansas Letter.

Piggott, Ark., March 20, 1907.
EDITOR RECORD-PRESS:—Noticing that my former letter found its way into the columns of your paper will now as I promised endeavor to give its many readers a brief description of the beautiful land in which I now live.

To begin with, I want to say there are several million acres of vacant United States land which can only be acquired by homesteading, all lying in the beautiful "Bear State" (Arkansas) which has seventy-five counties and this Government land can be found in nearly every county of the state and to those who have never stopped to think of the location of the grand old state, will say: It is bounded on the North by Missouri, on the East by the Mississippi river separating it from Tennessee and Mississippi, on the South by Louisiana, Texas and Indian Territory.

It has an area of 53,850 square miles of which the surface varies, the Ozark mountains crossing is from Northeast to Southwest with subordinate ranges including the Black Hills on the North, the Ouachita Hills on the South and the Cave Hills on the Northwest.

To the South are broad prairie districts and the remainder of the state is diversified between hills and fertile, beautiful valleys. The entire state is rich in timber including vast forests of pine, the different species of oak, hickory, gum, locust, walnut, cypress in abundance cedar and many others, which produce valuable lumber. While it has no sea coast is remarkable well provided with navigable streams. The Mississippi river extends along its whole eastern border, a distance of 400 miles of this great stream. One of the largest affluents is the Arkansas river, which rises in the Rocky mountains, traverses the center of the state in a general southeast direction about 1,500 miles, and is navigable from its mouth into the Indian territory.

The Red river, which is also navigable, rises in New Mexico and flows through the southwestern part of the state, to the commercial interest of that division in the Ozark mountains of Missouri; rises the St. Francis river, which runs into the Mississippi, crossing the northwest corner of the state. This is also a large river, but its navigation is impeded by snags. White, Black, Spring, Cache and Ouachita rivers are all navigable streams. In Pike county is a natural river, one of the curiosities of the state. In the north part are rich mineral deposits. Coal is known to exist in twelve different counties watered by the Arkansas river, the mineral being high-grade semi-anthracite, supposed to cover an area of 1,200 miles, the vein varying from 1 to 9 feet in thickness and from 30 to 60 feet below the surface. There are also canals and bituminous coals in abundance. Iron ore of excellent quality is plentiful in the Ozark mountains. Zinc is more abundant than in any other state in the Union. Lead ore, frequently bearing silver, is found in different parts of the state. Gold is found in some sections. One late discovery of gold has occurred here in Clay county one mile north of Piggott. The government assay shows that it contains $18.62 per ton gold.

Land is being bought up rapidly as a result of this discovery, and it is thought that this will soon become a leading mining section of the state. But little development has been made in that direction in this county, as it is a newly settled place and time will only bring about the development which we think will result in rich discoveries of valuable minerals here.

Manganese is found in paying quantities, and more gypsum than in any other state in the Union. Oil stones of a superior quality exist in immense beds in the Ouachita valley. Salt is produced from the Saline Springs in the same vicinity.

I have been in many different parts of the state, and there are other and more important facts I could mention, and will take pleasure in the future in giving you the benefit of my limited knowledge of the glorious Old Bear State, its soil productions and the many advantages we have of enjoying ourselves in the wilds of the forest. There is plenty of game, such as deer, wolf, wildcat, a few bear and panthers, turkey in abundance and many other varieties of small game. Our streams are alive with the finest of fish. To the sportsman this is a paradise, and I will say before I close to anyone who desires a home in a high, healthy climate, that Clay county is a fine place, as land is cheap and the man with any energy at all can soon become a land owner here; but land is advancing in price and these golden opportunities will soon fade away as settlers are coming in fast from other states and taking up the land.

I am now on the dividing line between the Cache and St. Francis rivers, known as Crowley's Ridge. It is a high range of hills running through several counties. Fruit of all kinds grows here in abundance, and it is also a fine farming region.

Hoping that these few lines will reach the eyes of some interested friend, I will close by saying that if this doesn't worry the patience of our kind editors too much I will write again in the future.

Well, bye-bye to all.
Yours respectfully,
JOHN E. ROBERTS.

Notice to Our Customers.

The Courier Journal has recently added as a special feature of Sunday edition a sixteen page illustrated Magazine that is the equal of any of the ten cent magazines published. Eight pages are filled with half-tone pictures of person and events of special interest to Louisville and the State of Kentucky, while the other eight pages contain sketches, stories, etc., prepared by the best writers. The Comic Supplement is another attractive feature of the Sunday Courier Journal. The Sunday issue of the paper is now equal to any paper published anywhere, and it is constantly improving. The usual number of pages is about fifty-four.

The Richest Man in the World.

The richest man in the world can not have his kidneys replaced nor live without them, so it is important not to neglect these organs. If Foley's Kidney Cure is taken at the first sign of danger, the symptoms will disappear and your health will be restored, as it strengthens and builds up these organs as nothing else will. Oscar Bowman, Lebanon, Ky., writes: "I have used Foley's Kidney Cure and take great pleasure in stating it cured me permanently of kidney disease, which certainly would have cost me my life." J. H. Henry Watterson, editor of the Courier Journal, is now in Europe. Mr. Watterson will probably return early in May. He will send home a series of editorial letters that will prove entertaining, as his writings always are.

ELECTRIC BITTERS THE BEST FOR BILIOUSNESS AND KIDNEYS

Missouri Letter.

Nevada, Mo., March 15, 1907.
CRITTENDEN RECORD-PRESS.
We think it due our dear old home and friends of former days that we should occasionally acknowledge our love and devotion to them. Many events are erased from our minds, and many forgotten by the intervention of years, but the environments of childhood are never forgotten and seldom grow dim.

Few words appeal to the heart with such force as the word "home."

How touching the memories of the old home, one and one-half miles west of Marion on the Salem road. Life there was very simple. It was an old farm house. The furniture was very plain. The environment was very crude. But it was a sacred place. Mother, brother and sisters were there. Familiar names and faces, and familiar voices, scenes and kindred spirits made the place sacred.

Every stone, every board, every window and door about the old house, and every tree and shrub about the place is sacred. Others might pass by without a sensation, save of loneliness, but to the one who was born and brought up there everything is beautiful.

Memory recalls many happy faces which we met in and around Marion, and to meet them was like a ray of sunshine across our pathway.

Many of these faces have disappeared from the streets of Marion and dear old Crittenden. Some have gone beyond the "river," where we hope to meet them, and others to the great west, where they are competing favorably in the great rush of commercial life.

But those days—those halcyon days of youth have passed away, and we find ourselves facing many great changes. Marion has changed from a non-assuming little inland town to a notable little city, with all the modern conveniences; and we trust it may continue to grow and become the metropolis of the vast ore fields by which it is surrounded.

We love Kentucky, and do not regret that we were born in Crittenden county.

We find ourselves located on the western border of the great State of Missouri, confronting the real issues of life, but like one of old we can say, "Truly the lines have fallen to us in pleasant places." We are keeping pace with our environments, with no disposition to complain.

Missouri is a great state, with great people, has great opportunities, and does great things.

We have the greatest Governor among the "Folks," and when we get through with him as Governor he will then be all right for the Presidency—that is when William Jennings Bryan's time is out.

J. G. HAYNES.

WHEN PRIDE COMES BETWEEN

So many of the little chafing problems of married life could be mastered, so many of the mist of misunderstanding could be dissipated by the sunshine of love, so many of the discords in the music of home could be translated into harmonious if false pride did not so often come between writes William G. Jordan in the April Delinator.

True pride is the guardian and protector of what is best in us; false pride is the sullen defender and apologist of our weakness.

Life has so much real, pain and sorrow so many dark clouds floating over the sky of home, care and trouble that seemingly no human foresight can prevent, that it seems almost extravagance to manufacture troubles merely to offer them as sacrifices on the altar of vanity, this false pride.

The News—No Pure Drug Cough Cure Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is—and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package.

For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and see. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Simply refuse to accept any other.
